Agenda

- Learning Objectives
- Defining Developmental Networks for Career Development
- Mapping Your Developmental Network
 - Identifying your Developers
 - Identifying Career and Personal Goal Areas, a.k.a. your “Buckets”
- Evaluating Your Developmental Network
- Action Planning

Learning Objectives

By the end of this workshop, participants will...

- Compare and contrast the roles of mentors and/or developers in their academic career
- Begin identifying their own developmental network (“developers”) who:
 - Help get work done
 - Help in career advancement
 - Provide personal support
 - Serve as role models
- Identify Career and Personal Goal Areas
 - Begin to identify relevant developers in each area
- Appraise and Evaluate their initial Developmental Networks
- Recognize the Need for Action Planning and Next Steps

Defining Developmental Networks for Career Development

Mentoring Myths

You have to find one perfect mentor

Mentoring Matches need to be perfect

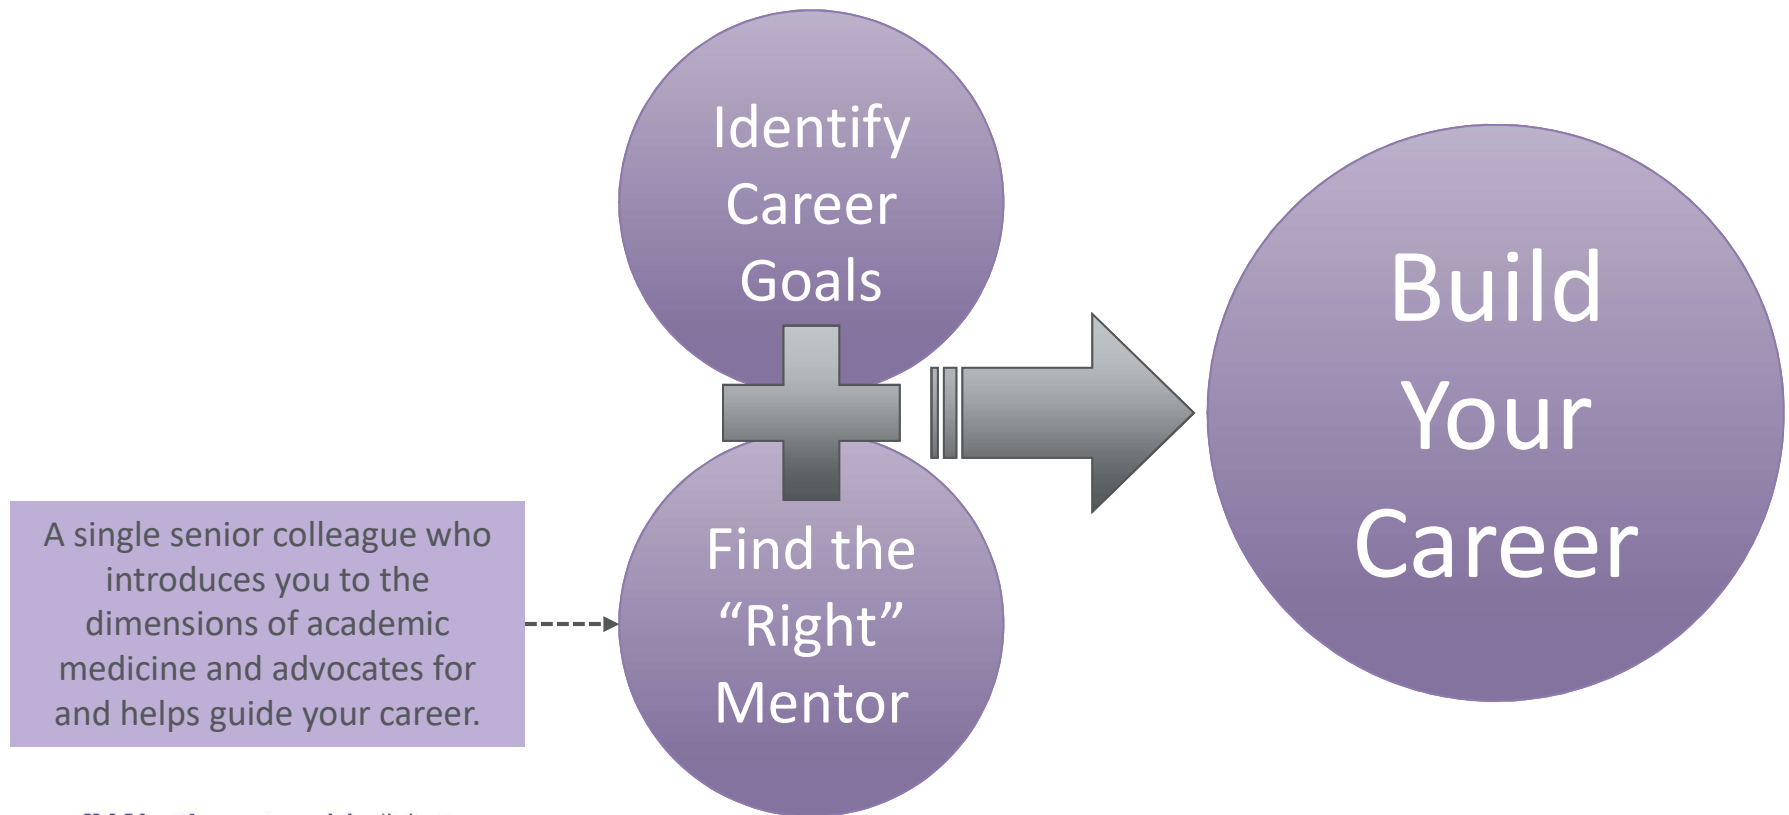

You only need one mentor at a time

Mentoring is a formal, long-term relationship

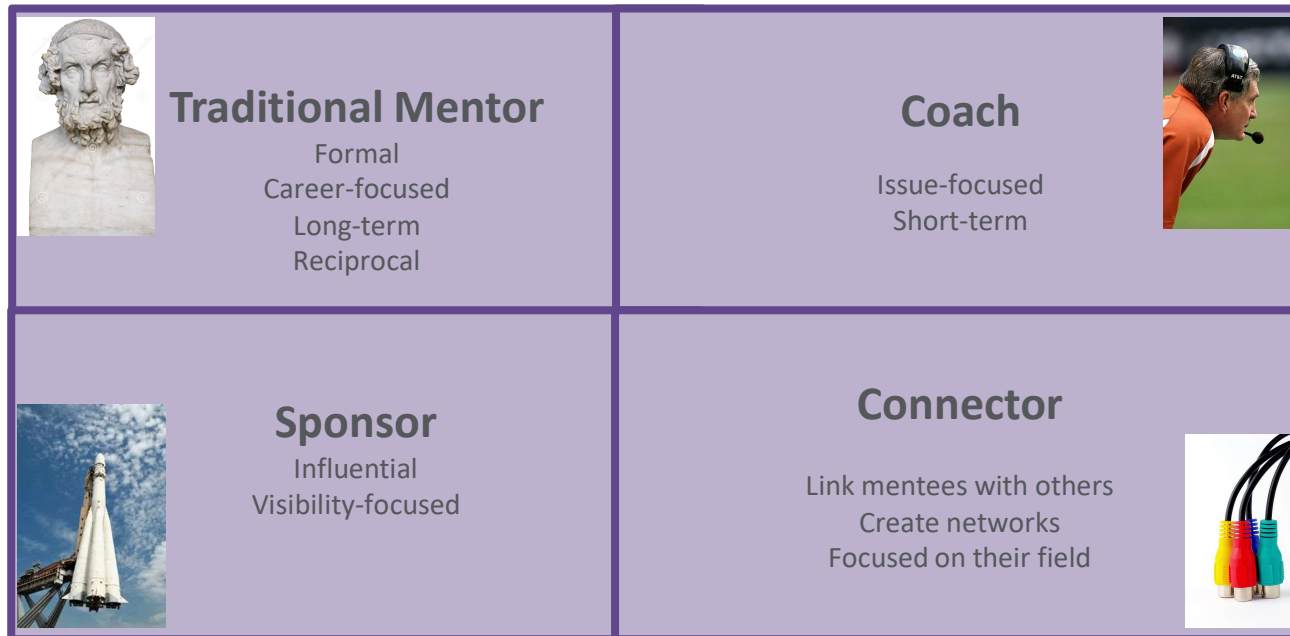

The closer a mentor is to my specific area of research or life experience, the better

The mentor must be older or more senior to mentee

Career Development & Mentoring

4 Mentoring Archetypes-Chopra, Arora, Saint (2018)

Chopra V, Arora VM, Saint S. Will You Be My Mentor?—Four Archetypes to Help Mentees Succeed in Academic Medicine. JAMA Intern Med. 2018;178(2):175–176. doi:10.1001/jamainternmed.2017.6537

The Strength of Weak Ties

- Acquaintances (weak ties) less likely to be socially involved with one another than close friends (strong ties)
- Weak ties form a “low density network” but provide “crucial bridges” to others
 - Weak ties may become strong over time and vice versa
- When considering your developers, realize they will fall along a continuum of how close they may be to you

Traditional Mentor and Developmental Network Models

Beyond One-on-One
How the network model of mentoring compares with the traditional model

	TRADITIONAL	DEVELOPMENTAL NETWORK
Mentor	Individual	Group
Role of Mentor(s)	Expert passing on knowledge	Co-learners sharing knowledge
Relationship(s)	Hierarchical Stable Within the organization	Hierarchical and peer Changing Inside and outside the organization

Life Cycle of Career Development

Mapping your Developmental Network: Identifying your Developers

The Pieces

- Your Developers: Who are your developers?
- Type of support: What do your developers do for you?
 - Get your work done
 - Advance your career
 - Provide personal support
 - Are role models
- Extent of assistance provided (How much: Never – Always)

Personal Support

Mapping Your Developmental Network

Get the Job Done

Advance Your Career

Personal Support

- Are helpful and useful in doing your work;
- May work directly with you; and/or,
- Have provided leads to others who helped you with important information, scientific or technical advice, professional expertise, or other resources to do your work.

Advance Your Career

Personal Support

- Contribute to your professional development/career advancement;
- Give you career guidance/direction;
- Arrange exposure to critical people;
- Provide political advice;
- Help you get important opportunities and assignments (such as appointments on hospital or national committees, journal editorships, or grant panels);
- Advise you on promotion;
- Provide advice on funding opportunities; and/or,
- Advocate for you.

Get the Job Done

Advance Your Career

Personal Support

- People you go to for your emotional well being and psychosocial support;
- Ones with whom you share experiences – positive and negative;
- Consult about decisions or concerns that are important to you;
- Vent/commiserate with;
- Debrief critical experiences with;
- People with whom you can be yourself.

Social Roles of Developers

Organization	Family	Community	Other
Superior	Spouse/partner	Personal friend	Former work colleague
Manager/supervisor	Parent/guardian	Romantic partner	Teacher/instructor
CEO/president	Sibling	Counselor/therapist	Business associate
Coworkers	Aunt/Uncle	Neighbor	Recruiter
Formal mentor	Grandparent	Spiritual guide	Unmet hero
Subordinate	Child	Acquaintance
HR representative	Relative/other

Developmental Network Map: What are your buckets?

ACTIVITY – Break out groups

Identifying Your Career and Personal Goal Areas and add your developers

Step 1:

Write down your goal areas in the buckets

Write down your developers

Step 2:

Start to put your developers into the areas

Discuss with your guest mentorship experts

- Ask questions...
- What are your thoughts as you are filling out this network map?
- In what areas do you see your greatest concentration of developers? What are your thoughts about that?
 - What patterns do you see?
- Did anything surprise you as you worked to fill out this map?

Evaluating your Developmental Network

Evaluating Your Developmental Network

- Size: Do you have the right number of developers to help you reach your goals? Should you enlist more people? Or, do you have many and need to manage those relationships more effectively?
- Diversity: How similar or different are these individuals (in terms of gender, race, function, geography, organizations) to each other and to me?
- Redundancy: How much overlap is there?
- Interconnectivity: How closed is the network in the sense that most of the people know each other?
- Strength of Connection: What is the spread of people in terms of closeness and distance?
- Balance: Is your network balanced or in danger of tipping?
- Connections to Power and Influence: How many would you characterize as influential in the department or hospital or field?

The Next Steps: Action Planning

Action Planning

Identify an opportunity that you would like to pursue going forward:

1. How will your current network help you achieve your goal?
2. What type of help is missing in your current developmental network?
3. How can you leverage your current network to meet people that can be helpful to you?
4. What specific actions will you take to get things started?
5. Who is your accountability partner?

Action Planning

Why is this important?

- A. Help you enhance (extend and/or strengthen) your network relative to major challenges/opportunities you will face in the next 1-3 years.
- B. Help you develop a relationship building strategy that will work for you.
- C. Help you develop a specific plan to pursue over the next 3-6 months.
- D. Help you create an accountability mechanism.

To Remember

- Don't restrict your developers to your own context/area
- Think creatively as to who could be your developers (whose doors could you knock on?)
- Consider what you need/what you are asking for from each of your developers
- Don't stop here – identify your next steps
 - Action Plans
 - Accountability partner/check in
- Identifying Developers and Mapping your Network takes time
 - Not a static map – will change over your career

What is your own Take Away?

- What aspect of how you have approached identifying your own Mentors/Developers do you plan to change moving forward?
 - i.e., what individual behavior change(s) could you enact to increase or strengthen your developer network?
 - Share in chat or verbally if willing

Questions?

If you would like a follow up small group session to go over your network/map, email Jeanne or write in the chat.
